- The study, prepared by the Spanish company Deva, measures the transparency, commitment, relevance, and accessibility of the information that Chilean companies deliver to the market.
- This year, the seventy companies with the highest market capitalization in the country were evaluated.

Santiago, September 30, 2021. Enel Américas took third place in the sixth edition of the Reporta Chile study that measures the consistency and coherence of information delivered by companies and how they incorporate their account on the integration of sustainability issues into their mission, vision, and purpose. Last year, the company managed to climb from eleventh place to fourth, and this time it rose one more place to third.

"This is a very important recognition since it highlights the lengths we are going to in providing transparent and timely information to our stakeholders and, at the same time, it challenges us to continue improving year after year," said Maurizio Bezzecheri, General Manager of Enel Américas.

The Reporta study was created in 2010 by Deva, a Spanish agency specialized in sustainability management and financial communications, with the first edition of Reporta Chile launching in 2016. Today, it evaluates the seventy companies with the largest market capitalization in the country.

The CFO of Enel Américas, Aurelio Bustilho, received the recognition on behalf of the company and stated: "This distinction highlights the importance of reporting beyond legal obligations in a context in which it is becoming increasingly relevant to make quality information available to investors and other stakeholders."

The methodology used in the Reporta study includes the analysis of indicators in four dimensions:

- Transparency: Complete economic, financial, and operational information that shows the company's performance in this area and its future prospects.
- Commitment: The information related to environmental, social, and corporate governance issues shows the degree of commitment of the company with the stakeholder groups affected by its activities.
- Relevance: Information regarding the company's strategy, context, and commitments.
- Accessibility: The information is presented in a clear and accessible way for the distinct types of users.
